

THE ONE BARREL AT A TIME CO-OP

Karen Lynn Anderson

Karen Lynn Anderson is a New Jersey transplant from Ann Arbor, Michigan. After high school, she spent five years as a bassist in a touring punk band before moving to New Jersey and returning to school. Karen has an Associate's degree from Middlesex County College and is a Visual Art major at Rutgers School of Arts and Sciences. During the school year she studies photography, painting, and art history. Karen works as a nanny and has a small baking business making fancy custom cakes.

Her rain barrel "Barrel of Monkeys" is inspired by her work with children.
